

The legislative session has come to an end! Due to your help, we were able to again accomplish our goal of protecting homeschool freedoms. Thank you to all who responded to our alerts. Your calls, letters, and e-mails were successful in stopping harmful bills from passing into law.

No legislation was passed this session that would have an affect on homeschooling. Several bills that were a threat to parental rights were stopped. We do expect to see some of these bills next session, along with proposed legislation for the controversial alternative learning programs.

The next legislative session will begin on January 10, 2007, and will last 106 days. We have already started preparing for this session. However, since we are volunteers, we are unable to do all that a full time dedicated staff is able to, we humbly ask for your prayers and support. Together we can make a difference in protecting homeschooling.

Preserving homeschool freedoms for today and tomorrow!
